

TRAINING GUIDE

Selling the Snugrock

A 20-minute course for Grumbleton & Sons reps. Snacks encouraged; knights not.

★ BY THE END OF THIS COURSE YOU CAN

- Explain what the Snugrock does in one breath (a normal breath, not a fire one)
- Match the right model to the customer's hoard
- Handle the three most common objections
- Close the sale without eating anyone

Duration	Audience	Prerequisites
20 minutes	New and returning reps	None. Enthusiasm helps.

Course modules

Snugrock King and the rest of the Heated Boulders range

Module 1

Achieving maximum cozy

Circle three times before lying down. Four if it's been a long day.

Try saying

"What's in your hoard today, and where does it live?"

Module 2

Classic or King?

If the tail hangs off, it's King.

Try saying

"For a hoard your size, the Snugrock King is the one."

Module 3

The Volcanic setting

Mention it. Never recommend it.

Try saying

"I hear you. Gerald said the same thing."

★ COMMON OBJECTIONS

The customer says	You say
"It's too expensive."	Compared to losing a crown for 269 years? The Snugrock pays for itself the first time a knight leaves empty-handed.
"I'll think about it."	Of course. Dragons live a long time. Leave the flyer and the order code; they always come back.
"Will it survive me?"	Rated to 600 °C and covered for Lifetime of the mountain. It will survive you.

Knowledge check

Answer these before your first customer. Answers are at the bottom — no peeking, we will know.

1. How long to warm up?

2. Recommended setting?

3. Who carries a Snugrock?

ANSWERS

1. 20 minutes 2. Toasty 3. Nobody