

TRAINING GUIDE

Selling the Trophy Rack

A 20-minute course for Grumbleton & Sons reps. Snacks encouraged; knights not.

★ BY THE END OF THIS COURSE YOU CAN

- Explain what the Trophy Rack does in one breath (a normal breath, not a fire one)
- Match the right model to the customer's hoard
- Handle the three most common objections
- Close the sale without eating anyone

Duration	Audience	Prerequisites
20 minutes	New and returning reps	None. Enthusiasm helps.

Course modules

Trophy Rack Six and the rest of the Armour Racks range

Module 1

The tasteful pitch

It is not a threat. It is tidy storage that happens to be a threat.

Try saying

"What's in your hoard today, and where does it live?"

Module 2

Upsell

Sells itself next to the Beware of Me sign.

Try saying

"For a hoard your size, the Trophy Rack Six is the one."

★ COMMON OBJECTIONS

The customer says	You say
"It's too expensive."	Compared to losing a crown for 269 years? The Trophy Rack pays for itself the first time a knight leaves empty-handed.
"I'll think about it."	Of course. Dragons live a long time. Leave the flyer and the order code; they always come back.
"Will it survive me?"	Rated to 900 °C and covered for 300 years. It will survive you.

Knowledge check

Answer these before your first customer. Answers are at the bottom — no peeking, we will know.
